

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An information processing device and method, and a recording medium for enabling several users to participate as respective avatars in a virtual space constructed on a network and to have conversations with other users. The data regarding the feeling expressions of an avatar, which correspond to a user's conditions, are managed. Then, the image displays of the avatar are controlled based on the storage of data on the image displays.